

Deborah Nuber earned a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Edinboro State University after graduating from Fort Le Boeuf High School. She has over 30 years of teaching experience in Christian Education at ACSI affiliated schools.

Deborah began teaching at LCA at its inception in 2005. She retired from full-time teaching as the 1st & 2nd grade teacher and has been teaching Elementary Art and Children's Literature for the past seven years. She has participated in and earned credits over many years from the ACSI Teaching Conferences and was a presenter when teaching full-time at LCA. She was the Academy's Speech Meet coordinator for several years and initiated Family Science Night at the Academy

Deborah and her husband, Jeffrey, have two married daughters and three grandchildren. Their daughters both spent their elementary years at the schools where Deborah taught. They moved on to Christian Education in high school and college. Two of her grandchildren currently attend LCA. She enjoys spending time with family and traveling. Deborah and Jeffrey currently lead a small group of their peers and are active on the ushering and prayer teams. They have volunteered for children, youth and young adult ministries over the years. Deborah helped to lead a youth mission's trip to Costa Rica and an adventure camp trip to Youth for Christ in Jackson Hole, WY. She finds that family and friend walk/talk time is an invaluable part of life!

"My life's joy is to teach and guide others in their relationship with Jesus Christ and to be used to open children's eyes to God's love and hope for their future through education."
